

Over the past few years Tim Korade, local computer guru, has been helping me out whenever I'd run into a technology glitch. I still write long hand on a yellow legal pad...so there's been no scarcity of problems. Like...'Oh no! Tim help! Pressed a key by accident and the whole thing disappeared'...was not unusual.

He stopped by the Bridge House recently offering to hire anyone who'd come to his place and rake leaves.

Three BH participants volunteered...declining the money...and got the whole job done in 30 minutes. Just paying it forward.
